Foreword

An education is a goal of all students. Frederick Military Academy is an education in itself, putting aside the academic point of view.

No cadet enters the main gate knowing what he is to encounter. As the year goes by, he lives through an experience which will remain in his memories always. We of the Cannon staff present here, to you, our view of this experience, which will be something to bring back many memories.

As you look through the pages, you will be reminded of: the instructors under whom you made "A's" (and the other ones), the close friends you made in nine months of working together, the cold morning formations and other such military functions we try to forget, the teammates with whom you experienced victory and defeat, the clubs and various other organizations to which you might have belonged and worked to make them progressive and independent, the dramatic productions, the various annual events like the Junior-Senior Prom. All of these things will be forever in your mind and are shown here to refresh your memory.

A typical Monday afternoon before drill. The weekly courtsheet is posted and many regrets are made.

The Saturday before Parent's Day was used to award many ribbons such as "Best Drilled Company."

Col. Inscoe acted as master of ceremonies over this annual event. Among the honored guests were the former Commandant of Cadets, Lt. Col. Henry H. Church, and the Company and Detachment Sponsors.

Our Founder

About 1948 Fred W. Beazley conceived the establishment of a school dedicated to the fulfillment of the educative and spiritual needs of worthy young men. In 1958 his dream became reality, for Frederick College, a junior college and high school, was established upon these present premises. Here the school remained for three short years until the college was moved to a new location in Nansemond County. This moving was instrumental in that it allowed for the establishment of a new institution, Frederick Military Academy. Since its innovation, Frederick Military Academy has grown into the progressive school of today. The establishment of these educative institutions are indicative of the progressive mood of Fred W. Beazley, our founder.

President

The president of any institution demands a many faceted personality. Such an individual is hard to find. We can count ourselves among the fortunate, for we have such an individual in the person of Col. Philip G. Inscoe.

His talents range from his stage endeavors, to his personal contact with the cadets and faculty, to his church work, to his home and family. His job is not an easy one considering the fact that he is called upon to be judge, counselor, friend and ally.

Perhaps Thomas Huxley summed up the philosophy of Col. Inscoe in his work not only with the faculty but also with the cadets. Huxley said, "Perhaps the most valuable result of all education is the ability to make yourself do the things you have to do, when it ought to be done, whether you like it or not; it is the first lesson that ought to be learned; and however early a man's training begins, it is probably the last lesson that he learns thoroughly."

During his six short years as president, Col. Inscoe has done his administrative, executive, and directive job quite well and effectively; he is held in high esteem by the cadets as well as the faculty.

Guidance Office

As Guidance Counselor of Frederick Military Academy, Major Clarence P. Mooring has established a department dedicated to the collegiate preparatory system. Major Mooring acts as the formal liaison between the individual cadets and the various colleges. With such an important task, Major Mooring acknowledges the need for accurate and wise advisement; and to this need he fully responds in avid study of the newest techniques in counseling and in study of the ever changing collegiate requirements. Consequently, Major Mooring has become Frederick's guidance mentor and is directly responsible in many cases to the collegiate education enjoyed by many of Frederick's alumni. In addition to his counseling duty, Major Mooring sponsors Frederick's yearbook, "The Cannon." To this avocation, the Major sacrifices much of his spare time in earnest travail.

Commandant

As Commandant of Frederick Military Academy, Colonel Floyd H. West is unsurpassed by his precedents regarding his diplomacy and jurisdiction over the Corps of Cadets. Unquestionably, Colonel West holds the most difficult and exasperating duty in the entire administration. He is the judge, liberator, and at times parental guardian over the corps. With his duties, Colonel West is constantly in direct contact with individual cadets and must, therefore, put himself on their level in order to properly interpret and to act upon the issues placed before him. So that he may keep up with the flood of insistant request for liberation from confinement, explanatory notes of "He did it," not I," and of the many crimes which demand instantaneous solutions, Colonel West uses his keen mind, his astute awareness of reality, and his knowledge of personal reactions to various situations to formulate a defense. With such auspicious attributes, it is to no ones surprise that Colonel West regularly comes up with a just solution. (To this most cadets, at one time or another, can certainly bear witness.) Colonel West performs his job well and is to be praised for such loyalty in service to the school.

Being of Sound Body and Mind, I . . .

Kirby Biggs, leave, to Chip Whitney, the night of Dec. 20, 1965, 10:40 p.m. and my Volks.

Brooke Pruden, leave to Col. West 100 cans, a bicycle at midnight, and a dream to see it all in.

Wilbur Lee Thompson, leave to the infirmary my travail and my hopes that it will remain the best job on campus; and to Rick, Dan, Jeff, Ronnie, etc. the avowed knowledge that this Senior Class is "Senior."

Larry (Goldie) Hudgins, leave relinquishing my secret of four years – summer blonde. Only my hairdresser knew.

Jim Ward, came with a sound mind and sound body; I leave with a sound body.

Brooks Archbell, being of no mind and great physical strength leave to an upcoming Junior Officer my ability to act and think later in military and all other matters.

Joe Romano, leave to the next, "Joe the Barber", the ability to cut a cadet's hair so that he can pass Major Rick's haircut inspection.

Moose Lowry, leave Coyote Ames one Moose Call and one broken guitar string to Lee Thompson.

David Evans, leave memories of the services of "Peterkin's Company". To Jack Wells I leave "Peterkin's Company" for the on-coming year.

Tom Stevenson, leave F.M.A. the same way I found it – A great school . . . (They said these could be funny).

H. W. Ames, leave to Maj. Stokes my E.S.P. ability and to any underclassmen the ability to get into the Color Guard and into trouble.

Mike Whaley, leave many lonely nights to this Academy and one cold telephone booth for the use each morning before class.

(Big) Dan Conrad, leave to Capt. Garrett my wonderful "sense of humor".

Tom Parsons, leave.

Steve Edwards, leave Maj. Stokes (Hugo) one copy of "Working for My Baby" and two lab manuals.

Don Maggio, leave my great ability to get the best girl for the Military Ball.

Brooks Johnston, leave Baylor Hall.

Tom Gilliam, leave Frederick with hopes of never returning.

Chip Whitney, leave FINALLY, wondering why I ever came.

Jim Hook, leave to Col. West a roundtrip trolley car ticket to Philadelphia and 20 demerits for returning to campus late from leave.

Jack Glaser, leave Col. Evans 2 dozen pair of green and blue socks, and 2½ inches of long black hair.

David Ariail, leave to any Mil. III Cadet my tremendous map reading ability so he can get lost on the football field too.

Pat Daniels, leave a case of battle fatigue and assorted stripes to Col. Plaine.

Miles Riley, leave F.M.A., for higher education.

Larry Stolarski, leave of unsound body and of unsound mind.

Tom Hazelwood, leave my deepest respect to Col. Plaine, Col. West, and the rest of the faculty at F.M.A.

Ronnie Isbel, leave Frederick all the respect and esteem I once held for it.

Tom Rawls, leave Coach Daughtry a free golf lesson.

Dave Crute, leave for a bottle of P.J. as F.M.A. loses a military genius.

Jack Sochor, leave to anyone who has two free periods all the work in Mrs. West's office.

David Smith, leave to Capt. Sale my surly and deathly stares, of which he knows so well.

Jim Pickard, leave Frederick more learned than when I came.

Scott Coffey, leave to Maj. Gelback a box of crayolas, a life size portrait of the Frederick "Zip-Code," a handful of thumb tacks, and one "Likely Story".

Pete Peterson, leave four of the greatest and most rewarding years of my life . . . and my warped sense of humor.

Bob Bessent, leave to Col. Plaine one "Smothers Brothers" album and 20 hours of extra duty.

Jimmy Smith, leave Higgins Hall to all the 200 to 250 lbs murders that I had to live with all year, and to Mike Diamond one broken chair.

Steve Woolley, leave one copy of "Working for my Baby" to Maj. Stokes.

Hank Jones, leave to Joe Ferbe my position in Peaterkin's Army as Executive Vice Grand Dragon.

Mike Thompson, leave to Col. Plaine a burnt training film, the ability to operate a movie projector, and a broken window shade in the Military Classroom.

Reade Belote, leave my position in "Peaterkin Army" to anyone willing to uphold it.

Gary Harvey, leave Capt. Sale the pictures on my cast and to Mark Jones a book on how to go with three girls at once.

Tom Miskill, leave to Jack Sutherland, John Cropper, and Jeff McVey the rememberances of all the good times we had together.

Joe Lewin, leave F.M.A. knowing that I have accomplished my goal in life, graduation from H.S. and my gratitude to Col. Inscoe, Col. West and the rest of the F.M.A. staff.

Bill Hayes, leave to Coach Head a book entitled, "How to Get a 'Head' in life".

Ricky Tart, leave to Eddie Weidler and Bill Wideman a coat hanger plus a set of pipes which they soon may need. Also to Greg Wallis and Ken Grassel 50 push-ups.

Rick Williams, leave deep friendships such as Dan, Lee, Ronnie, Jeff, etc. with almost a tear. I also leave to Col. Plaine, Col. West, Col. Inscoe, and Maj. Mooring my deepest thanks.

Dewy Evans, leave to next year's B.C., Lt. Col. Wilton F. Sale, all 410 Cadets and 19 acres in hopes that he will rule with an iron hand.

Doug Williams, leave 10 feet of rusty bridge rails on the James River Bridge to Charlie Shields, Steve Oman, and Rick Williams and hope that Col. Plaine finds his 2 lost flags.

Tim Marshall, leave to Capt. Sale my ability to slouch down in my chair and to drive him to his analyst with my "cow chewing his cud" gum chewing.

Mike O'Connor, leave to Gilbert Morris, Chickin-chested Davis and Runt Richardson 396 man-eating cockroaches; to Hazelwood, a shattered window.

Paul Case, leave eraser fights and "wet willies" to Captain Colonna.

Larry Szabo, leave to Col. Inscoe the night of April 28, 1967 and; to Margaret A. a cold shower.

Jeff Carpenter, leave all the troubles I had with the Administration because of the Annual and my thanks to Maj. Mooring for all his help.

Military

Professor of Military Science

As Professor of Military Science at Frederick Military Academy, Colonel Robert G. Plaine has established a military corps impeccable in general nature and constitution. He is considered by the corps as well as the faculty as the pinnacle of the instructive unit. No one deserves nor obtains the respect and attention as does the corps' Colonel Plaine. His word is law, and his every movement made either on or off the drill field or in the classroom is observed with respectful contemplation Yet, within all of this superb and stringent militant manner lies that characteristic from which the corps and faculty draw their respectful attention his ability to understand and to side with those things which he convicts to be equitable.

Associate P. M. S.

During his two year tenure here as Associate Professor of Military Science, Major David W. Reichenbacher has established a reputation advocating military perfection. His radical guise has ramified in numerous vicissitudes in the corps' appearance and leadership machinery. His most notable advocate is that of the "haircut". Anyone running afoul with the Major anent this can certainly bear witness to his stringent attitude. Albeit the stressing of such related trivialities appear ludicrous to the average cadet, it must be avowed that such things are behooved in obtaining proper military order and appearance. Consequently, Major Reichenbacher through his militant guise has enhanced the N. C. O.'s as well as the Average Cadet's Efficiency and Military Bearing.

Coach—Glenn Gottshalk

The entire corps and the administration would like to express their deepest appreciation to Glenn Gottshalk who served as the Junior-Varsity Basketball coach this year. Glenn was a devoted coach who gave unselfishly of his own time solely in the interest of the team.

To the boys on the team, Glenn was more than a coach, but a fellow cadet who understood them and led them to a very successful season.

The Key Club In Action

With Cadets of this caliber, just think of our future Key Club?

The Globe-Trotters.

I don't get to hold hands very often.

The Key Club has entertained the corps this year with a Faculty-Key Club basketball game. Some of the Faculty "Stars" were: Ranger Rick, Cool Head, The Neck Glassburner, Rufus Alcindor Outland, Crazy Legs Davis, Long Tall Direct Current, Wally Coggins, and Sammy Reynolds. With Coach C. P. Mooring as chief extortionist the Faculty was destined to win.

This Night will never be forgotten

Junior-Senior Prom of 1967

A good time was had by all this night . . . or should we say by almost all.

"This is the best Junior-Senior yet, don't you agree?"

"See that girl all dressed in green . . . she thinks she is real mean!"

"If you think you are having a good time now . . . wait an hour."

Junior-Senior Prom

Would you like a drink?

This year's valedictorian, next year's husband.

Dramatic Productions of Frederick Military Academy

Perhaps, the most inquisitive and certainly the most praiseworthy events of the entire school year were the dramatic productions. Under the direction, guidance, and occasional acting of Capt. W. F. Sale, these plays have acquired that touch of perfection formally associated with only those plays of the national scene. Captain Sale's brilliance and success in histrionic events no doubt stems from his ability to be psychologically another person inwardly and express it outwardly and his ability to convey this occupational "must" to his actors and actresses. Consequently, these dramatic events are of superior quality to those associated to the ordinary high school. These plays are held in high esteem by those audiences witnessing their performances.

Acknowledgement

So many people have contributed their efforts that I hardly know whom to begin with, but the annual staff has worked the longest and hardest. Therefore I wish to show my appreciation to: Sandy Block, who worked long and hard and still kept his grades up, Ronnie Isbel, who was my part time worker depending on his mood, Larry Hudgins, the selfpromotion artist of the staff, Wilbur Lee Thompson, the man with the words, Pot Pie Morton, who put up with a lot from the staff, Larry Szabo, a late comer to the staff. I would also like to thank David Smith for permission to print his graduation speech.

Bill Hash, our Delmar representative, has worked very hard with us. I wish to give him his well deserved thanks. Maj. Mooring, our faculty adviser, has put up with a lot this year like: late deadlines, cutting out our cuts, etc. I thank you sir. Mrs. Outland has been a great help by keeping our spirits up.

Col. Inscoe and Col. West deserve a hearty thanks for working with us when our plans and theirs did not coincide. I would like to thank Col. Plaine for working with us such as the aerial picture of the campus with the corps spelling CANNON. Mrs. Inscoe, Mrs. West, Mrs. Glynn and Mrs. Beaver deserve our gratitude for working with us many times.

I wish to thank Coach Davis and the rest of the coaches for helping us compile the sports section. Also I wish to thank Capt. Sale for helping on the captions of the dramatic section. Capt. Garrett deserves a thank you for putting up with me this past year.

It is impossible to mention everyone, because almost everyone worked with us in some way. Anyway to all those who have helped, my deepest appreciation.

Valedictory Address

Col. Inscoe, Honored Guests, Faculty and Staff, parents and members of the class of 1967.

In Ralph Waldo Emerson's essay "Self-Reliance" he says . . . . "Nothing can bring you peace but yourself. Nothing can bring you peace but the triumphs of principles." These principles must be your own. But who can say what principles are? One of the major conflicts being waged today is not between one country and another but between one generation and another. It is not a fight for supremacy but a fight over changing principles and ideals. Society is witnessing the gradual loss of its principles and who is to blame? The mass of the people or the individual?

If society doesn't allow the individual to reason and think for himself, how is he to blame? If the individual is not to blame, then it must be society, but how can we blame society for the individual who makes up the mass? This paradox brings me to a rather amusing quotation which is so often true, "In these matters the only certainty is that there is nothing certain." So I feel that if this is true then the only certainty must be found in ourselves, our principles, our ideals. We must find our certainty in principles and ideals that are good and beneficial for us, right for us as individuals. If a person is given the power to reason and to think then why should he always follow? Are we not becoming mere machines in which our lives, like data cards, are punched and stamped, do not fold, do not spindle, do not mutilate.

"Society never advances. It recedes as fast on one side as it gains on the other. It undergoes continual changes, it is barbarous, it is civilized, it is christianized, it is rich, it is scientific; but this change is not amelioration. For everything that is given, something is taken. Society acquires new arts and loses old instincts."

George Bernard Shaw said in his play, Pygmalion, "Independence? That's middle class blasphemy. We are all dependent on one another, every soul of us on earth." There is some truth in this statement. For it is true that in our complex economic structure, we are all dependent upon one another. Yet does this imply dependency and surrender of the complete individual, must we ascribe to the principles and ideals of others as well as their thoughts? The answers to these questions is all too often ——Yes. If this is true, is it good? Can we be expected to advance to that unknown quantity and quality if we do not express ourselves? The teenager like generations past and present is trying to find answers to these questions through mistakes and triumphs. The older generation thinks that it has answered these questions through experience and mistakes. Perhaps it has the answer (for itself), but we need to find our own answers. Everyone is entitled to make mistakes. Why not us?

In 20 years what we are fighting for today may be accepted as common place. The fight seems to be centered on finding our own identity and this war has been waged by every generation. It can only be won with truth not the old lies. The struggle will continue and we may not find the solution because we, like you, are afraid, "We are afraid of the truth, afraid of fortune, afraid of death and afraid of each other. We want men and women who shall renovate life and our social state. "Not just settle for mediocrity for discontent is the want of self. It is the infirmity of will.

We are only human beings who must act on our own judgement because one will never find peace until he has found himself. We cannot rely on others who thinking themselves leaders only intending to destroy. These leaders often seem to be trusted friends but only generate discontent and harbor seeds of doubt and mistrust. We must trust ourselves and our own minds and bodies and souls. Perhaps this is what is wrong with the world today. The countries must stand together if there is to be peace and trust. Yet, the frightful thing is that they can-not really stand each other much less trust each other. If each individual would practice trust in himself; then with hope, we could find solutions to the insoluble. "Man is his own star, and the soul that can render an honest and a perfect man commands all light, all influence, all fate."

David Smith
